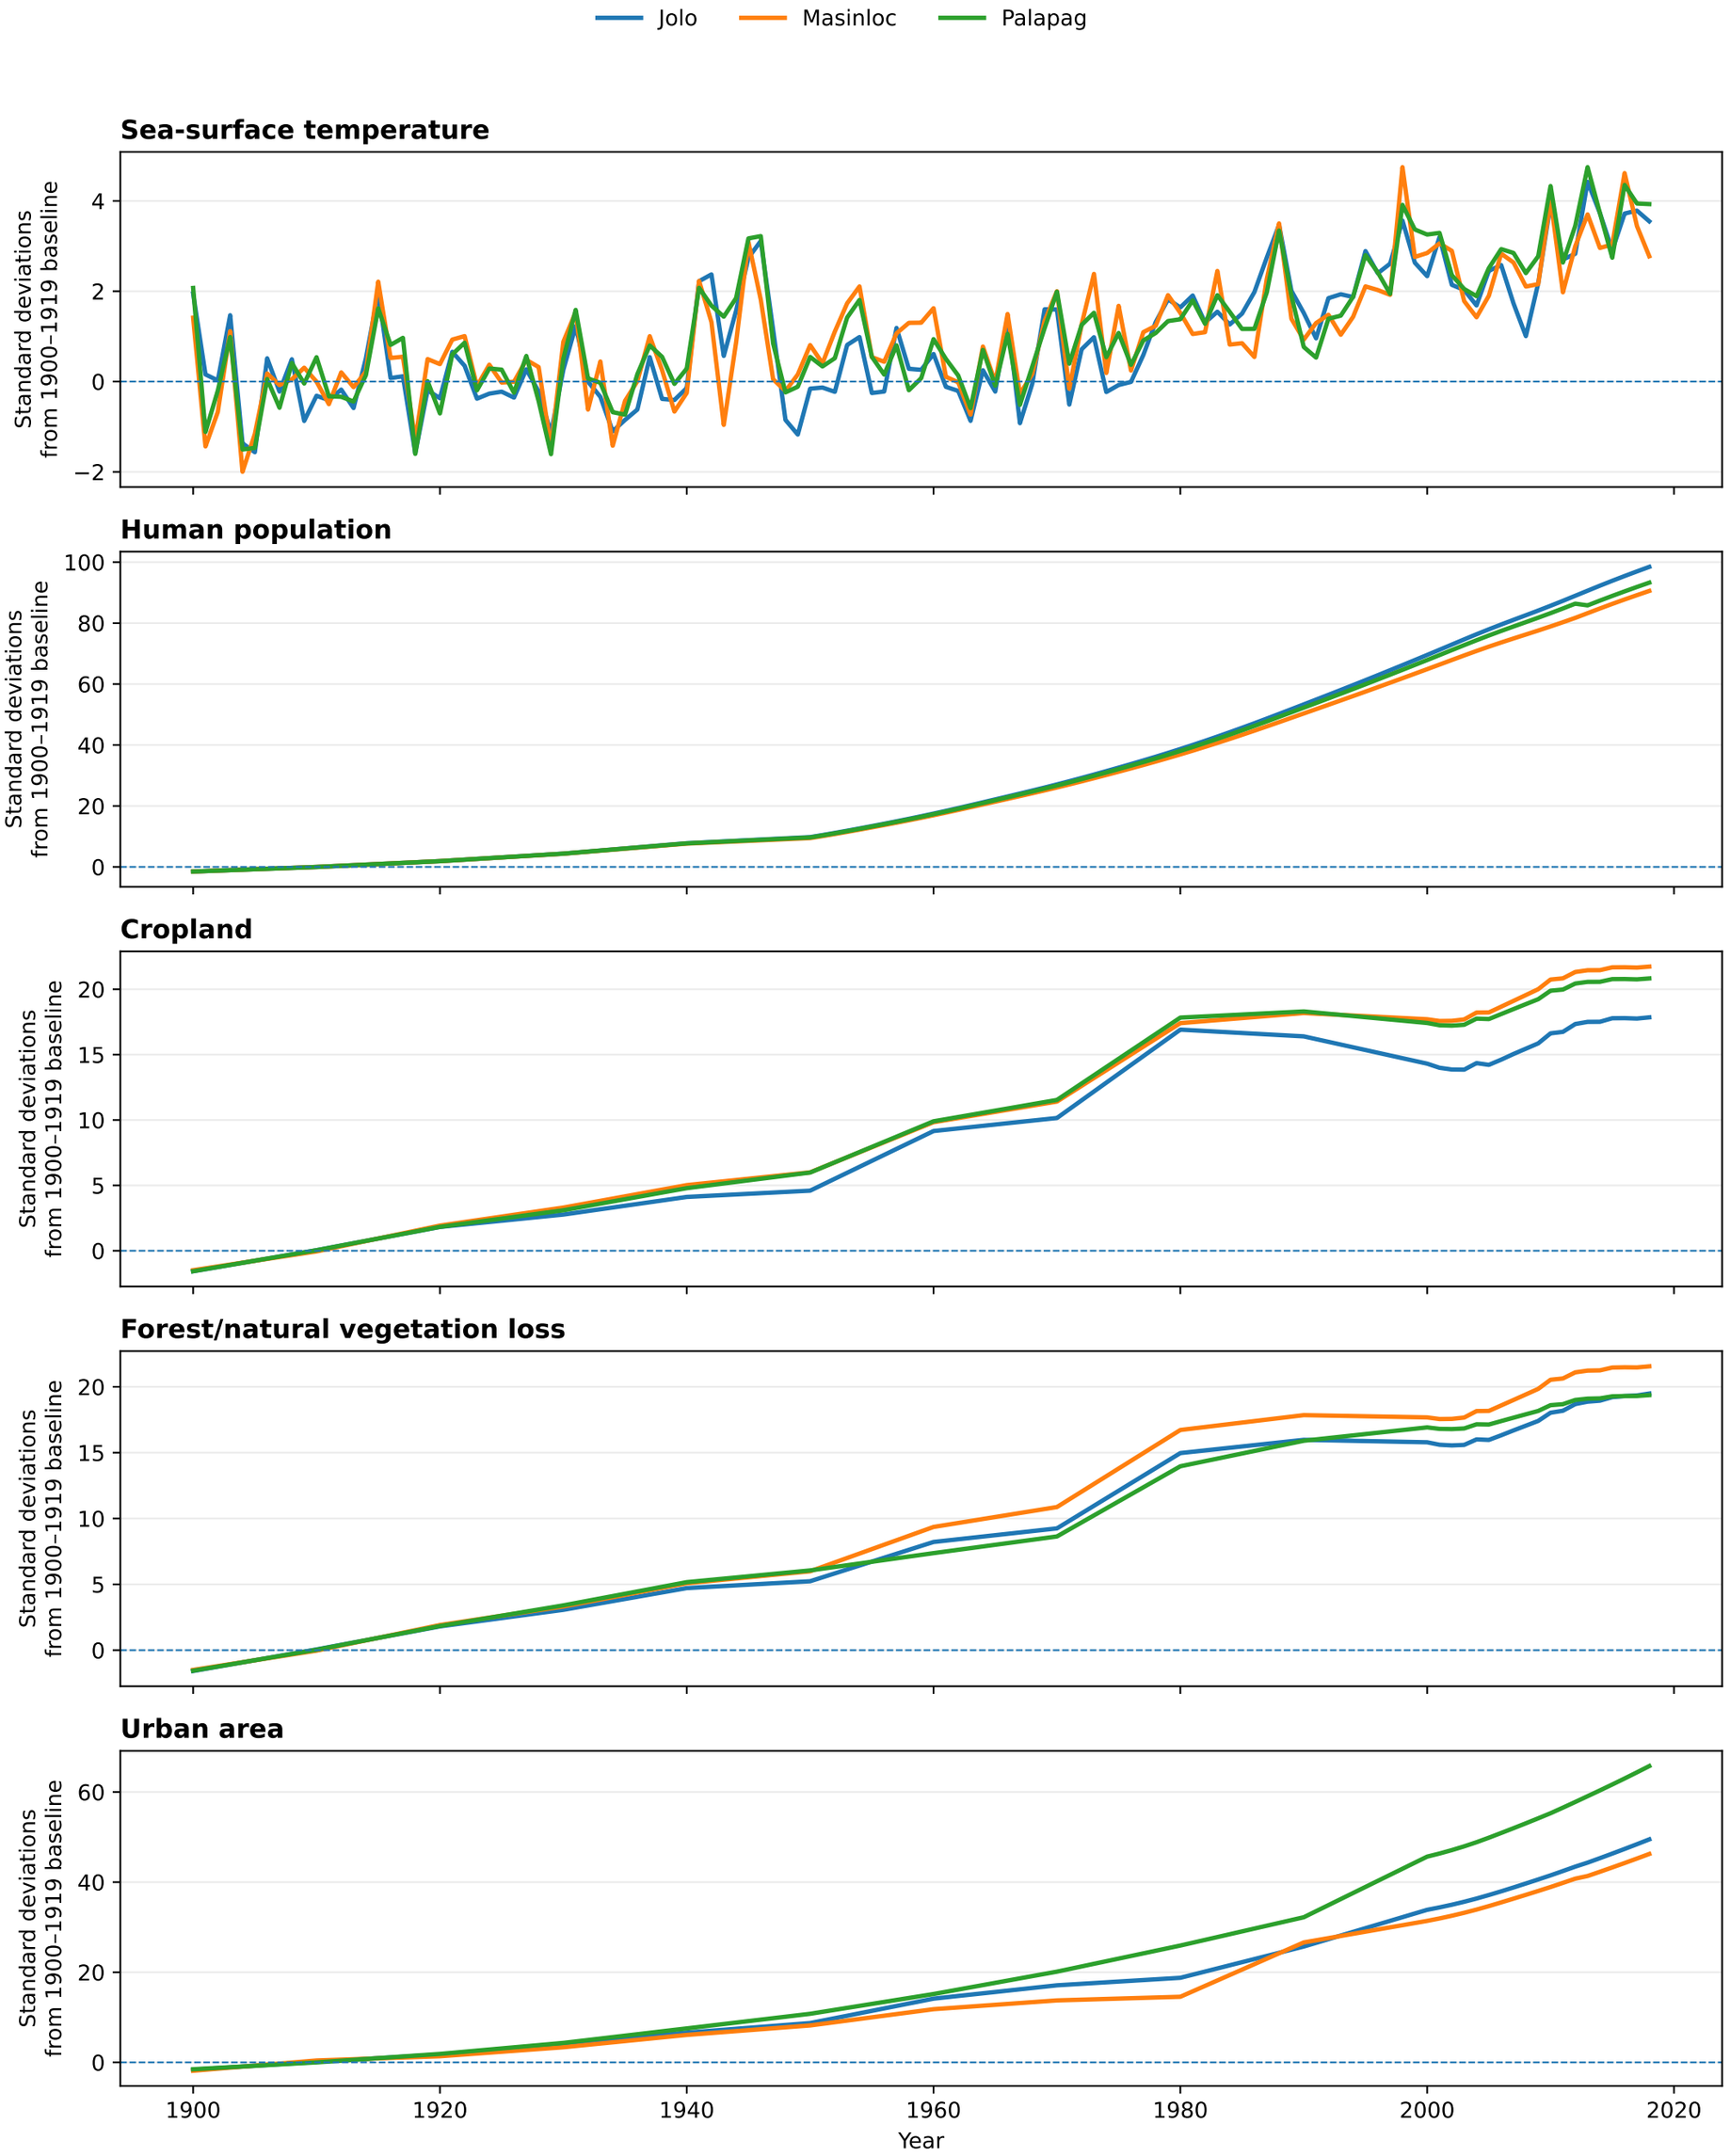
Historical environmental and anthropogenic change relative to early-20th-century baselines



Each trajectory is standardized independently by site and variable using the 1900–1919 mean and SD. Forest/natural vegetation is sign-reversed so positive values indicate increasing forest-loss pressure. No composite pressure index is shown.